

It is we women who no longer remain idle, submissive to the breadwinner who don't stay home who don't accept complacency who don't follow tradition

امرأة

It is we working women while those who remain quiet are appreciated become revered in sexism continue the oppression become havent to intermittent male expectations

قوة

المثابرة

It is we working women
who come out parading the exuberance of equality against the tides of ineffective government and backwards society who organize the persecuted in unions who have advocated for all minorities, must now stand together for ourselves
